Vote today on millage, trustee seats

Voters in the Plymouth and Wayne-Westland School Districts have until 8 p.m. this evening to vote for members of their respective school boards and determine the fate of millage and bond proposals.

In Plymouth six candidates are seeking election to two four-year terms on the board of education including, Leslie Cavell, Joseph Gray, Elden Thomas, Flossie Tonda, Jack Wiegand, and Thomas Yack.

Plymouth School District voters will also be asked to approve two millage proposals for operating funds in the district. The first seeks renewal of 5.15 mills and the second asks for an additional .46 mills. The added .46 mills will replace a portion of debt levy which has been reduced by increases in total property value in the district, and a .40 mill safety millage which has expired.

In the Wayne-Westland District voters will be asked to vote for two candidates out of a field of six for seats on the school board. Candidates include: James Dupree, Agnes Greene, Anne Harbison, Cliff Johnson, John Kendall and Robert Reichard.

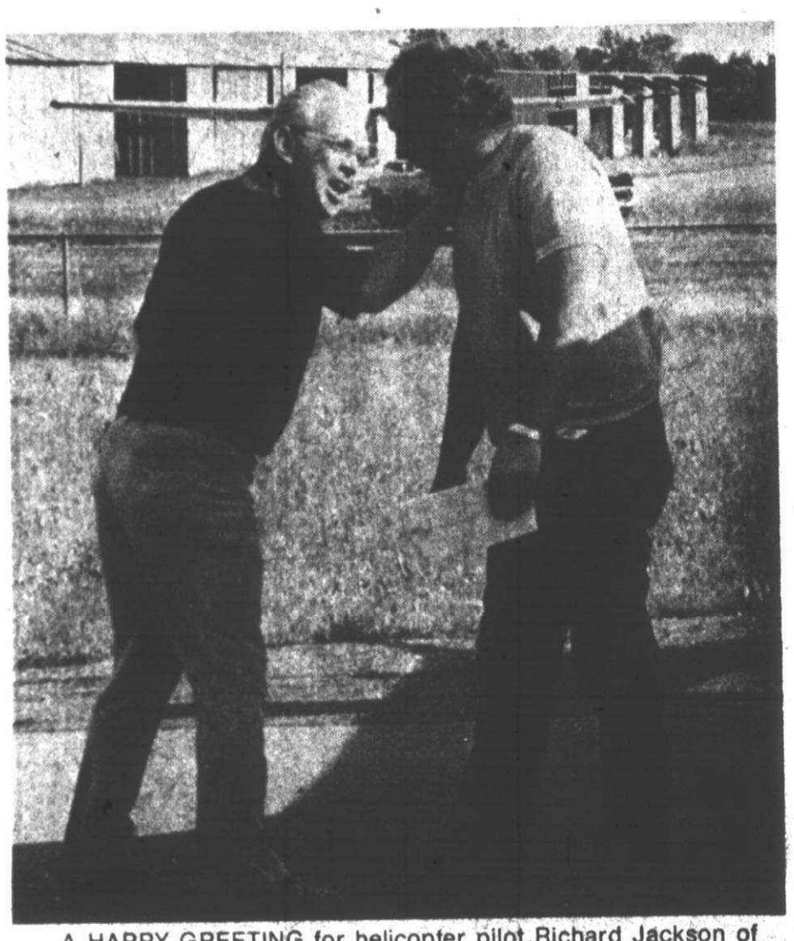

Wayne-Westland voters will also be asked to approve a .07 mill debt retirement levy to finance a $28 million bond issue for the improvement of facilities in all school buildings in the district over the next 25 to 30 years.

Under the plans of the district, vocational education facilities will receive $5.1 million, and recreational facilities will get $7.5 million. Elementary and secondary facilities will receive $10 million, roof repairs are set at $2.5 million and $3 million would go for the improvement and construction of service facilities, including a new administration building.

A HAPPY GREETING for helicopter pilot Richard Jackson of Westland came from his boss, Barney Stutzman, after Jackson returned from a skyjacking episode which carried him inside the walls of Jackson State Prison and out again in a daring daylight escape last Friday morning. Pilot flies escape run at knifepoint

By MIKE ARNHOLT

CANTON TOWNSHIP—It was a smiling Richard Jackson who returned to Canton Township's Mettetal Airport Friday afternoon, after his helicopter was skyjacked and used in a daylight escape from Southern Michigan Prison at Jackson earlier in the day.

The 29-year-old Westland resident and Viet Nam veteran said he wasn't shaken much by the events of the day which took him to Jackson at knifepoint for a quick touchdown inside the Jackson prison yard to pick up Dale Otto Remling, a 46-year-old inmate serving a term of six to 10 years for passing bad checks.

Remling's taste of freedom was brief as state police captured the fugitive outside a bar in downtown Leslie, 13 miles north of Jackson, approximately 30 hours after his Friday morning escape.

State police have four other suspects in the escape attempt including Jolyne Conn, 31, of Webberville; Susan Jane Hill, 20, and JoAnn VanPatton, 20, both of Oak Grove, Mich.; and Calvin T. Woodbury, 19, the son of another woman sought by police. All four have been charged with aiding and abetting in a prison escape.

Still sought by police are Gertrude Woodbury, 43, of Webberville, and Morris E. Colosky, 20, also of Webberville. Mrs. Woodbury is beleived to be one of the getaway drivers , while police believe Colosky was the skyjacker of the Hi-Lift Helicopter.

Police had earlier questioned Doanld Hill, of Howell, as a possible suspect on the skyjacking charges, but learned that Colosky had borrowed Hill's identification and has been using it for several weeks. Hill is still being held on an unrelated charge of parole violation in the Livingston County Jail.

JACKSON was scheduled to take a man who gave his name as Alfred Williams Jr. for a round trip to Lansing at 8 a.m. Friday morning, by Hi-Lift Helicopters at Mettetal. According to Hi-Lift owner Barney Stutzman, "a woman called just after eight and said her husband was running late and would be there around 10 a.m."

Jackson left with his passenger, briefcase in hand, shortly after 10 and "after we were in the air for about five minutes the man pulled a survival knife from his briefcase and put it to my side— then my neck—as he moved behind me in the passenger seat."

"I tried to give a Mayday call but he pulled the mike cords from my radio, and asked me if I knew where Jackson prison was."

Jackson said he told the man he didn't, although admitting later he knew where the prison was.

"He told me I better find it no later than 11:05. He knew exatly where he was going and told me where to set down in the prison yard.

"THERE WAS a man five or 10 yards in front of us after we set down, he jumped in and said, 'Let's go.'"

After leaving the prison, Jackson said he traveled about five miles north and was told to touch down again.

"I didn't know if they were going to hit me over the head or knock me off. While we were on the way to Jackson, the man gave me a $100 bill. It was funny, when they left one man grabbed the $100 bill off the floor and smiled while the other hit me with mace and tore my glasses off."

The pilot said he was lucky he had been wearing glasses which he thinks lessened the effect of the chemical irritant.

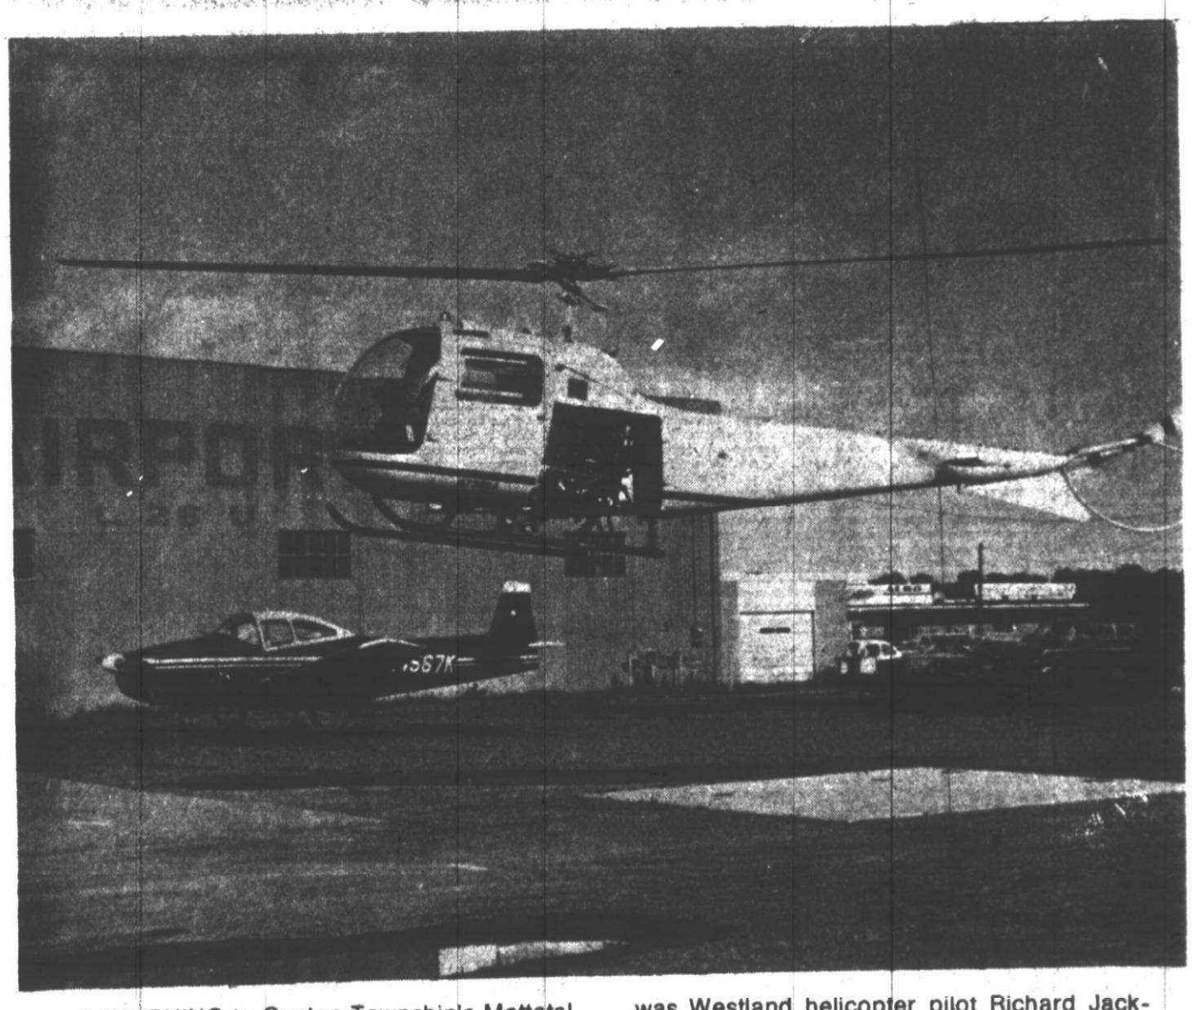

"Within two or three minutes I was back in the air."

THE PILOT SAID he contacted the airport tower at Jackson to notify the State Police and went back in the direction he thought the escape car had taken.

"I saw a red car sitting at the side of the road. I circled over the car and then it took off. I followed it north, west, east and south until it ended up within a half mile of the prison where the state police got 'em."

Jackson spent the remainder of the day under questioning with State Police and FBI officials reconstructing the events. A State Police artist was flown to Jackson from Lansing to con-

Price labels might stick in Canton stores

By DARLENE STINSON

CANTON—A can of soup is a can of soup by any name.

But comparative shoppers need more than a name to determine which can to buy. They also need the price.

Township trustee Robert Myers believes in the shopper's right to select a product because of its price. He wants to insure that right to all persons who shop in Canton Township stores.

Myers, a member of Consumer Alliance of Michigan, fears a new computerized checkout system will eliminate the need for price markings on individual products.

TO PROTECT the rights of consumers, Myers plans to introduce a price-marking ordinance at Tuesday's board meeting.

The ordinance, borrowed from a proposed model of the Consumer Federation of America (CFA), would require the stamping of readable, price tags on all retail products.

"I'm just going to present this booklet from the CFA for the scrutiny of board members," Myers said. "CFA went on record against this type of thing in Michigan."

Myers' and the CFA's fears surround a new computerized, checkout system, known as Universal Product Code (UPC). Under the system, computers at checkout stands would scan small boxed-in areas of black lines and numbers.

The computer code, which manufacturers are already stamping on numerous products, would eliminate the need for price punching on cash registers and price markings on individual products.

The code would "tell" the computer the product's brand name and type, and the computer would automatically stamp the store's product price on the checkout tape.

According to Myers, the supermarket industry hails the UPC as a cost-cutting system, under which reduced costs would be passed on to the consumer. The computerized system would diminish supermarkets' labor costs by eliminating the price stamping of individual products and by speeding up the checkout line.

Under the system, Myers fears, supermarkets would eventually remove product prices even from the shelves.

"I think the housewife needs prices for comparative shopping. I hope this ordinance will allow the housewife to comparative shop and do away with the practice of taking the price off the product.

"I'm also trying to save jobs. If you do away with stamping products, you no longer need as many stockboys."

Myers questions the belief the computerized system will mean lower grocery prices.

"The supermarkets are saying they will save consumers money because it will do away with so much help. What it will do is eliminate competitive prices."

ALTHOUGH MYERS does not know of any store in Canton that is currently using the UPC system, Meijer's Thrifty Acres is using another system, known as Price Look-Up (PLU), on a pilot basis, according to Corky Mroczkowski, assistant service manager for the Canton store.

About 20 perishable food items are currently enrolled on the PLU system, Mroczkowski said. Under the system, a PLU number is marked on the product, while the product's price is marked on the shelf.

The checkout person punches the PLU number instead of the product's price. A computer automatically converts the PLU number to a price on the checkout tape.

The PLU system, Mroczkowski says, is used for items with continually changing prices.

"The amount of time in repricing those products is tremendous. The system gives us better control over our perishable items, and we know how to order them better."

Meijers, Mroczkowski said, would probably have to abandon the PLU system if Canton Township passes an ordinance requiring price markings on all products.

Teaching center still needs site

The futures of two types of educational centers in the Plymouth Community School District are intertwined.

The site of a new teacher in-service training center, designed to serve the Plymouth, Northville and Novi school districts, is still uncertain, despite plans to hold the center's first workshop on July 14.

Plymouth school officials are awaiting word from Wayne County's Regional Educational Media Center (REMC) to learn if Plymouth's request to house the Wayne County Intermediate School District's fourth media center is approved.

If REMC decides to locate the media center in Plymouth, school officials hope to house the teacher in-service and media centers at the same, but still undetermined location.

SCHOOL SUPT. John M. Hoben said the Plymouth School District, like many others inWayne County, submitted its request for the media center two years ago. REMC has eliminated all the requests by a screening process except those from the Plymouth and Livonia school districts.

"We're holding off on the site for the teacher center, until we hear from REMC," Hoben explained. "We expect word very shortly."

If the media center is not housed in the Plymouth School District, the teacher in-service training center will be located somewhere in the Plymouth, Northville, or Novi school districts, Hoben explained.

The three school districts are sponsoring the one-year pilot program, headed by British educators Gordon Hill and Malcolm McDonald, and sharing the total $70,000 cost on the basis of each school district's size. Plymouth will provide $45,000 of the total cost, while Northville will spend $15,000 and Novi will chip in $10,000.

THE TEACHER training center, known as CASTLES (Center for the Advanced Study of Teaching and Learning for Exciting Schools), will serve to increase teachers' competencies in areas of innovation and curriculum development. The center's summer session will seek input from teachers, parents and administrators from all three school districts.

Hoben said about 117 teachers have signed up for the center's summer workshops.

The media center, whether placed in Plymouth or Livonia, will probably produce vocational educational materials for Wayne County schools, according to Hoben. The center will supplement other media centers on Van Born Road and in Lincoln Park and Allen Park.

The Intermediate School District would give the sponsoring school district $45,000 to equip the center and provide one staff member. The Plymouth or Livonia school districts would have to provide the rest of the staff.

Schools requesting the production of educational materials at media centers must pay for supplies.

County continues paying judges

WAYNE COUNTY—The county will continue to pay the salaries of 23 Detroit Recorder's Court judges until the Michigan Supreme Court determines whether county residents should pay for the criminal court which serves the City of Detroit only.

The Supreme Court's agreement June 5 to hear the case came on the heels of an emergency request June 2 from 20 Recorder's judges and three Detroit Traffic Court judges.

The judges were one of two defendents in a suit filed by County Commissioner George Hart (D-Dearborn) claiming county taxpayers were illegally assessed for the court because they all did not vote in a 1921 referendum to fund the court.

Hart's suit was won on appeal to the Michigan Court of Appeals on May 29. A three-judge panel ruled that county residents who cannot run or vote for Recorder's Court judgeships shouldn't have to pay those judges' salaries.

The other defendant, Wayne County, June 5 decided not to appeal the case but instead to intervene on Hart's behalf. The Board of Commissioners voted 15-5 to take Hart's part, a decision which may be reconsidered at the next board meeting, some Detroit commissioners indicated.

Commissioners Mary Dumas (R-Livonia), Richard Manning (D-Redford), Royce Smith (D-Belleville) and Tom Taylor (D-Westland) voted with the majority. Commissioner John Barr was not present for the vote.

If the Supreme Court had not approved the judges' request and ordered a delay in implementing the appeals court ruling, the judges' salaries would have been cut by two-thirds, the county's share, on June 6. Detroit pays the remaining one-third.

It may be more than five months until the Supreme Court hears the case and the question settled.

Herron is elected to road commission

By SHELLY GUGGENHEIM

WAYNE COUNTY—In what was described as "the most pressure we've had on anything," the board of commissioners elected Joseph M. Herron of Garden City to a five-year term on the Wayne County Road Commission.

Herron, a Chrysler Corp. employe and past president of UAW Local 227, was elected June 5 by a vote of 16-9. He defeated Richard W. Cordtz, president of Serivce Employes' International Union, Local 79, AFL-CIO.

LABOR PACKED the City-County Building halls and auditorium, strong-arming commissioners to back their respective candidates.

Threats of opposing candidacies and loss of election funding were among the bolder suggestions the winning UAW made to commissioners, according to some area commissioners.

An unsuccessful challenge was mounted by some commissioners trying to discredit Herron's candidacy by charging that he could not run for election while still holding office as a county civil service commissioner.

Corporation Counsel Aloysius Suchy said Herron could run for election while still holding office, but could not hold the road commission post while still a civil service official.

JOSEPH M. HERRON

COMMISSIONER Mary Dumas (R-Livonia) backed the challenge and later passed on the vote.

Commissioners Royce Smith (D-Belleville), Richard Manning (D-Redford) and John Barr (D-Dearborn Heights) voted with the majority. Commissioner Tom Taylor (D-Westland), whose district includes Garden City and Westland, supported Cordtz.

Herron will fill the vacancy on the road commission created by the resignation of Thomas P. O'Rourke, now road commission manager.

He cast the decisive vote in April allowing O'Rourke to bypass civil service to fill the manager's job.

Herron, 49, of 27826 Maplewood, will receive $8,000 annually for the part-time road commissioner's job whose term ends Dec. 31, 1980.

No formal admission is required for the summer session. Most classes begin June 16 and end Aug. 8.

Almost 275 classes will be offered in the largest summer session ever scheduled. Most offer regular college credit.

The management training division is offering a number of four-week evening clinics in auto and motorcycle repair, some starting as late as Aug. 2, and some scheduled only on Saturdays.

Special enrollment for these classes is now being held in room 101 of the Administration Building.

Tuition for the summer session is the same as in the fall and spring—$10 per credit hour for Dearborn School District residents, $15 for non-residents and $25 for out-of-state residents.

Arts council honors its leader

A MOCK ELECTION for students of Plymouth's Centennial Educational Park last week gave soon-to-be voters an opportunity to express their views on two millage proposals and candidates for two school board seats. Roy Henshaw gives Sharon Battle a demonstration of how to make her choice, as her parents and other voters in the district will be doing today. (Staff photo by Maurie Walker)

By ELINOR GRAHAM

PLYMOUTH—Joanne Hulce, who has pioneered many new projects in the Plymouth area, stepped down after six years at the helm of the Plymouth Community Arts Council. At the council's annual luncheon last Friday, she turned over the presidency to Dorothy Magee.

"Of course it is a great satisfaction to know the success of an idea," said Mrs. Hulce, "but my greatest joy has been to work with so many fine women.

"All, with their special talents, have given thousands of volunteer hours to plan and execute the services of the arts council with creativity, good humor, hard work and above all, a great respect for one another.

"I believe the services of six years reflect such an involvement and contribution to the community. The new board of directors, with its president, Dorothy Magee, has all the qualifications for excellent direction and leadership."

She made no reference to her own volunteer hours.

JO HULCE has never been one to toss out a suggestion and expect others to take over and do all the work.

If the idea has merit, she pitches right in until it becomes an accomplished fact. So it was with the reorganization of the Plymouth Symphony League to its present form.

So it was with the first Symphony League antique mart, which has long been ahighlight of the Plymouth Fall Festival.

There was a time when the annual symphony ball became a lack- luster affair with the crowd arriving late from cocktail parties and then trying to bribe the orchestra to play on after the contracted time.

Jo suggested a change of locale and the distribution of prizes before 10 p.m. It worked. Everyone came on time and the orchestra no longer played for hours to an empty ballroom.

It was during her term on the Plymouth school board that Mrs. Hulce decided to do something about a situation that had been a source of concern for a long time.

When school budgets were pared, funds relating to the arts were always the first to be cut. An exhibit in another school vystem was responsible for a new trend of thought. There could be another way to do it. If the school budget couldn't afford it, perhaps something could be done on a volunteer basis.

She invited several friends to talk it over, asking, "Why are the arts the lowest priority of human needs?"

"WE WISHED to change that priority—to build an audience for the arts as well as more participants. To do this is an educational process and must begin with the very young," she recalls.

From this meeting, the Plymouth Community Arts council came into being in the fall of 1969.

"The board of education adopted the PCAC as a service organization and we were off and running," said Mrs. Hulce.

The arts coucncil had developed services in the visual and performing arts in the schools to supplement what teachers of the arts do in their limited time.

"In six years we have made great strides toward our goal, but only through the enthusiasm and efforts of a great many people.

"It is the ultimate desire to convince the Plymouth community and the policy makers that arts education should be an integral part of a child's education, from kindergarten on. It should include dance, theater, photography and arts appreciation as well as art and music."

THe LAST THREE years have seen an expansion of PCAC effort to include the adult community with a professional theater program, arts and crafts show during the fall festival, exhibits, craft classes and sponsored trips to museums.

An art rental program, co-sponsored with Dunning-Hough Library is under way and proving very popular. A new venture, "Business and the Arts," will involve business and industry in arts programs for the community.

The PCAC recently formed the Plymouth Cultural Committee, a group made up of all the arts-oriented organizations of the community. Its purpose is to coordinate and strengthen each group through mutual cooperation. The committee publishes Plymouth Preview. five days a week, with an update of community activities.

Mrs. Hulce will remain on the board of directors of PCAC for another year and will maintain her vital interest in the council.

There will be more time for personal activities, such as a trip to New York to see her younger son, Tom, in his starring role in "Equus," playing in the Plymouth Theater there.

Son Steve is working for International Harvester in Chicago and plans to attend Harvard University in the fall to work on a masters degree in business.

She also has two daughters. Barbara is working toward her masters degree at the University of Michigan, and Susan is a physical therapist in Milwaukee.

TURNING OVER the reins of the Plymouth Community Arts Council after six years at its helm, Joanne Hulce (left) offers congratulations to newly elected president Dorothy Magee. Mrs. Hulce was honored by the arts council with the announcement of an annual $200 scholarship, to be given in her name, to a talented high school student pursuing studies in the arts. (Staff photo)

Farmers waiting for funds

"It's like trying to help a drowning person, after he's dead."

That's how one Canton Township farmer describes a federal program, designed to help western Wayne County farmers recover from last year's crop failures.

Under the program, funded by the Farmers' Home Administration (FAHA), farmers may apply for loans at an interest rate of 5½ per cent and purchase the seeds, fertilizer and equipment needed for this year's growing season.

But the program, delayed by a myriad of red tape and governmental strings, may come too late to help Wayne County farmers with this year's planting expenses.

"This is June," said Roger Bordine, 48641 Saltz, Canton. "Most of the farmers already have most of their crops planted. I haven't filled out any paperwork or anything. We have been promised something, and we don't know whether we're going to get it."

THE WAYNE County Board of Commissioners in April declared western Wayne County an agricultural disaster area to enable farmers to obtain emergency federal loans at a low interest rate.

The loans would enable county farmers to recover from last year's $3.5 million crop loss, caused by a trio of devastating weather conditions— excessive rainfall which delayed spring planting; a summer drought; and an early frost in September.

Gov. William Milliken certified the agricultural disasaster declaration, but a final certification from the U.S. Department of Agriculture is needed to get the program under way.

"THE PROGRAM'S late, but it can still help the farmer," maintains county extension director Donald Juchartz. "A farmer may have had to borrow money at eight or nine per cent interest to plant this year's crops.

"Under the federal program, a farmer can borrow money at lower interest rates. He could borrow the money to pay off other loans."

Local farmers have a more dismal view of the program.

"Sometimes it's hard to get other loans," said Bordine. "I couldn't plan on what I was going to plant because of the money situation. We've just been getting a complete runaround."

Bordine cited losses last year in wheat, corn and soybean crops on his 200-acre farm. Bordine's soybean yield, 20 bushels an acre in 1973, only totaled two bushels an acre last year.

The Bunyea family, 50480 Powell, Plymouth Township, lost half of its pumpkin crop and much of its corn.

"I can't see where any of this stuff is helping the farmer," said Mrs. Patricia Bunyea. "If you don't have your crops in by now, forget it. We had to borrow other funds at a higher interest rate. If this ever does come through, we could pay off our other loan. But they just keep telling us to keep waiting."

Canton eyes job program

CANTON—The township hopes to provide at least a dozen jobs to youth this summer—but not out of its own pocketbook.

Township officials hope the Neighborhood Youth Corps, a federal organization which pays 14- to 18-year-olds hourly rates, will provide the manpower and the funds to pay them this summer.

The youth would work with the township's DPW Department to perform cleanup work, help out in the township offices and perform a myriad of other tasks.

Township office worker Pam Phillips said the township is now trying to obtain the services of the youth through the Wayne County Office of Manpower, which administers the federally-funded program for older youth, needed by the township to drive DPW vehicles.

"We do need the help," she said. "But we just don't have the money to pay them."

Summer is theme for choral concert

PLYMOUTH—"Music on a Summer's Eve" is the final choral concert of the year to be given by Plymouth Salem High School's vocal music department at 7:30 p.m., June 10.

Among the more familiar songs on the program in the Salem auditorium are "What the World Needs Now," sung by the men's chorus; "The Way We Were," by the ninth grade chorus; "I Have to Say I Love You in a Song," by the girls glee club; and "If," by the triple trios.

Graduating senior Linda Dwyer will sing a Hawaiian song, "Kamehameha Waltz," and the madrigal singers will perform 17th century chamber music.

The choir and orchestra will perform "Mass in G" by Franz Schubert, and all choruses will combine to sing "Sine Nomine."

Pilot skyjacked for prison escape

Jackson Prison officials said Remling was serving time for passing bad checks on a 6-10 year sentence since August 1973. Warden Ruth Bare said Remling in the honor block of the prison. He is wanted for prison escape, burglary and auto theft in California and for kidnapping, grand larceny and auto theft in Nebraska.

The 46-year-old escapee stands 5-10 and weighs 174 pounds. He has green eyes, brown hair and a ruddy complexion. No description of Ms. Woodbury was available.

State police reported they were looking for an orange Subaru believed to be used in the escape.

FBI OFFICIALS said they expected warrants to be issued today (Monday) on the air piracy charges by the U.S. Attorney's office in Detroit. The charges carry a $100,000 bond, and a life sentence for those involved in the skyjacking and escape.

Prison authorities said the section of the prison where Remling was picked up is not patrolled by armed guards, but is monitored by closed circuit television cameras. Prison officials were not aware the helicopter had touched down until after it had left the prison yard.

Remling scampered to the helicopter while on a lunch break at one of the prison factories near the touchdown site.

On his return Friday afternoon to Mettetal, Jackson said he'd had a long day, but said he planned to go to work that evening at a Detroit area lounge where he works as a "bouncer."

Jackson has been a commercial helicopter pilot for 1½ year at Hi-Lift, and served as a helicopter pilot in the Army for five years prior to that, two of those in service in Viet Nam.

Hi-Lift owner Stutzman welcomed his pilot back, but joked that he better go to work "to pay back the two hours of flight time" that he used up in his "no-pay" trip to Jackson.

Scorpion brightens skies

Summer will officially begin this year at 8:27 p.m., June 21, notes University of Michigan astronomer Hazel M. Losh.

"At this date and time the sun reaches its most northerly point in its apparent yearly journey around the earth, an event known as summer solstice. The result is our longest day, 15 hours and 17 minutes, and, naturally, our shortest night."

But the U-M astronomer points out that having the most sunlight of any day of the year doesn't necessarily mean the 21st will be the hottest.

"The peak heat of the season usually comes from four to six weeks after the summer solstice because our planet's temperature continues to rise as long as more heat is received during the day than is lost at night."

A constellation conspicuous during June is Scorpius, the scorpion, easily located soon after sunset in the southeast as a line of stars curving upward "like a giant celestial fishhook."

"Unlike many constellations, Scorpius actually looks something like the figure it is supposed to represent," Professor Losh continues, adding that it never rises very high in the southern sky. Rather, she says, the two stars marking the scorpion's upraised tail, poised to strike, are often referred to as "Cat's Eyes" peering over the horizon.

The heart of the scorpion is Antares, a ruddy star whose name means "rival of Mars."

"Actually, Antares, a great sun, is different from the planet Mars in practically every way except color, but this lone similarity has caused considerable confusion in the past when the two appeared close together in the heavens." The two are currently far apart.

Planets of interest in June include Venus, which, shortly after sunset on the 18th, will be seen at its greatest height above the western horizon. Dr. Losh says two especially lovely configurations of the month occur on the 11th, when Saturn will be found near the crescent moon, and on the following evening, when Venus will be very close to the growing crescent.

Mars is rising near the east point between 3 and 4 a.m., and on the 16th will pass less than one degree south of Jupiter, creating a very bright "double star" that morning.

Douse your cigarets

WAYNE COUNTY—Smokers beware! Your fumes and ashes are unwanted by the Wayne County Board of Commissioners.

From June 5 on, smokers will have to douse their weeds before attending commissioners' committee meetings in any room other than the large auditorium or similar space.

Commissioners voted 17-8 with one abstention to throw up a smokescreen during their meetings, supporting a resolution by Commissioner George Hart (D-Dearborn), a nonsmoker.

Insurance billing to be taught at SC

A special four-week course entitled insurance billing procedures will be offered by Schoolcraft College community services beginning June 16.

Designed to improve capabilities of employed medical office personnel, it also will give added marketable skills to those who already possess basic clerical knowledge.

Scheduled on Mondays and Wednesdays from 7-9 p.m. in Room 370 of the Forum Building, the course will end July 9. Tuition is $11 for district residents and $22 for out-of-district students. Instructional materials may cost about $6. Persons may register by contacting Jean Christensen in the community services office at Schoolcraft, 18600 Haggerty, Livonia.

Barbara Bargo, a registered nurse who will teach the course, says discussion will focus on government health insurance programs, Blue Cross and Blue Shield, and other major insurance programs. The course also will include practice and procedures for filling out and completing related insurance forms.

Plant begins fire training

The plant fire brigade at Chevrolet Motor Division's Spring and Bumper facility on Eckles Road in Livonia will "fight fire with fire" in an outdoor training program for two weeks beginning today (Monday).

Plant Manager B.J. Kearney explains that the purpose of the exercise is to update employes who voluntarily serve on the fire brigade on the latest methods of extinguishing actual industrial fires.

In planning the sessions, Kearney says special attention was given to ways of minimizing excessive smoke, undesirable fumes and particulate matter. "We plan to have enough of a fire to make it a realistic and worthwhile activity without causing a serious air pollution problem in the area."

Test fires of different types will be set under close control in a safe area of plant property. The program was arranged with the approval and participation of the Livonia Fire Department.

Experience at Chevrolet's 24 plants nationwide, Kearney concludes, confirms that realistic training is essential to safeguard employes and plant neighbors in the event of a real fire.

A Dad is a Dad

After his long day is done,

A Dad is a Dad when he's found out of doors
Playing ball with his little league son.

When he takes his small daughter on piggy-back rides
And tosses her high in the air,

When his children crawl up in his welcoming lap
As he sits in his favorite chair.

A Dad is a Dad when he spends the weekends
Taking his children on hikes.
When he's helping with homework
or mending toys

Or teaching them how to ride bikes.

A Dad is a Dad who cares just as much
After his children are grown—

In every child's heart is that one special place
That is meant just for Dad alone!

SC budget stresses program, staff development

By SUE ROSIEK

After nearly two hours of budget review, Schoolcraft College Trustee Dr. Gerald Cox pushed back his chair and said: "$9 million for 9,000 students strikes me as a reasonable figure."

That appeared to be the board's general feeling Wednesday, June 4, at the last review session before the budget is presented for formal consideration at a public hearing Wednesday, June 18.

The proposed budget, a $933,000 increase of last year, emphasizes program and staff development rather than capital outlay expenditures, which have characterized the colleges' budgets in the past, according to Fred Petersen, manager of business services.

Dr. C. Nelson Grote, Schoolcraft president, said he was satisfied with the proposed budget.

"It will enable us to continue programs and services, accommodate any anticipated growth and provide some improvement in programs and services."

NEW ITEMS in the proposed 1975-76 budget are:

- Five full time instructional positions, which will replace some present part-time positions.
- One librarian. The college has not added a librarian since 1968, and the enrollment has increased some 68 per cent, noted Grote.
- One counselor.
- One full time director of institution research, whose duties will include researching the availability of state and federal grants, and other special funding.
- Three clerical workers;
- Two technicians (reading assistant and a purchasing buyer);
- Two data processing workers (one computer operator and one computer programmer);
- One security officer.

Petersen pointed out that utility cost soared 27 per cent while other operating costs have also risen, and compose a sizeable chuck of the 1975-76 budget.

Also included in the proposed budget is $20,000 to cover election costs.

"We believe we can fund the college for another year on the current voted millage, but the administration informed the board last November that we would consider asking the voters for additional millage this year," explained Grote.

"Because it will be considered we think it's good sense to set aside money. There has been no firm committment for additional millage but we are considering a request."

The Schoolcraft District, which includes the Livonia, Clarenceville, Garden City, Plymouth and Northville school districts, levies 1.77 in voted millage.

Other new budget expenses are a $500,000 allocation which will establish staff and program development, and $58,000 for parking lot and site improvement at the Garden City Instructional Center. The center, presently located in the former Florence Elementary School is scheduled to relocate in the Harrison School in the fall.

Also in the proposed budget are increases for legal and audit fees and institution memberships, and a rent allocation of off-campus space for the climate systems technology program.

THE PROPOSED budget estimates $3.7 million in state appropriations, which Grote told trustees could change.

"It could be more or less, or on target. I am not optimistic that it will be more. It's very likely we will have a senate bill but no house bill. The proposed budget is calculated on information we have to date."

Peterson pointed out that the proposed budget has been constructed within the guidelines set by the board.

Personal services, which include salaries, wages and other comployе related expenses, amount to 81.5 per cent of the $9 million budget. The board had aimed for 85 per cent.

"Reducing personal services is the most significant thing we've done in the last few years," said Grote. "We were getting very concered a few years ago because it was increasing. We were afraid there wouldn't be any money for discretionary funds.

"It's our goal to eventually hover around 80 per cent so the college will be able to meet its operating expenses and continue to grow."

Operating expenses account for 15.4 of the proposed budget and 3.1 per cent or $300,000 has been earmarked for the college's contingency fund.

Petersen explained all budget categories were up because of inflation and rising costs, except capital outlay, which was down slightly. He said the 1974-75 capital outlay included a substantial amount for matching fund grants.

IN THE AREA of special funds, Kenneth Lindner, vice president for administrative affairs, said the board would have to prioritize its list of proposed projects.

"The board has budgeted for 12 out of 22 projects. Eight have had activity and 10 have no budget allocation. The board has agreed to add $100,000 to the fund, but the list will have to be re-examined."

Projects left without any committed funds include asphalt repair, sprinkling system, parking lot and sign improvement, remodeling on climate systems building, and a fire alarm system.

"There are just certain things we'll have to defer," said Trustee Arch Vallier. "The way I see it the asphalt and roof repairs and the fire alarms can't wait. We're not budgeting these improvements because of aesthetic appeal. The work has to be done."

"When you have this many projects to do around weather and students there's a limit to what you can do in a year," said Grote.

Lindner told the board the $100,000 special maintenance and the $150,000 special equipment fund requests were reasonable in light of other budget expenditures.

"No part of the budget has all the funds it needs or wants," added Grote.

Business sponsors SC student trainers

Four Northville businesses are sponsoring Schoolcraft College students at a workshop for student athletic trainers in July at Western Michigan University.

The students attending the workshop include Pam Ursa and Bob Glynn of Plymouth, Peggy Boyce of Garden City, and Dan Zabawa of Livonia. They will be sophomores at the college in the fall.

Costs of $65 for each student have been underwritten by donations from John Mach Ford, Les Bowden & Associates, A&W Root Beer and Stone's Unfinished Furniture.

Athletic Director Dr. Marvin Gans says the workshop, conducted by Cramer Products Inc. of Gardner, Kan., will improve the quality of service the college can give its athletes in prevention and treatment of injuries.

Esch offers new job bill

WASHINGTON,DC—U.S. Rep. Marvin L. Esch (R-Ann Arbor) has introduced a bill to provide $2.3 billion for jobs for the unemployed in public service and youth employment programs.

Esch introduced the bill as the result of the action taken by the House to sustain President Ford's veto of the CETA (Comprehensive Employment Training Act) legislation.

"This legislation will continue vital jobs programs at a reasonable level which should be acceptable to the administration," Esch said. Esch voted to sustain the veto, which Ford made because he believes the price was inflationary and was creating artificial jobs.

"It is imperative that Congress pass legislation which will not be vetoed by the President. "The unemployed should not be sacrificed in a political battle between the President and Congress. I strongly support federal funds for job creation.

"It is unfortunate indeed that the Democrats in Congress played political games with this appropriation and ballooned it comsletely out of proportion.

"My bill will provide $1.625 billion for public service jobs. This will allow the continuation of the emergency jobs program at the present level of 300,000.

"I was an original House sponsor of the summer youth employment program, and I have included $458 million in my bill for summer youth jobs. This will allow the hiring of almost 750,000 young people around the nation."

The Esch bill includes $117 million for the work-study program, $30 million for the community services program for older Americans, and $70 million for the work incentive program.

Esch said his bill has "eliminated superfluous and inflated proposals contained in the original appropriations measure.

"These include pork barrel Army Corps of Engineers projects and other related programs. It is imperative that the Congress approach this legislation in a spirit of compromise.

"We must not allow the unemployed to suffer because of a failure to work cooperatively with the administration," Esch said.

Right turn bill awaits action in State Senate

LANSING—A bill allowing Michigan motorists to make right turns at red lights has been passed by the house of representatives and awaits action in the senate.

The bill, HB 4057, would permit motorists to turn right at a red light after making a complete stop and yielding the right-of- way to other traffic and pedestrians.

The legislation would allow any community to ban "right-after-red" turns by erecting appropriate traffic control devices.

AT LEAST 17 states permit right-on-red turns, and 19 other states permit the turns when a sign is posted to permit them. Recent studies in such states indicate no significant problems because of right-on-red laws.

"I am hopeful this bill will be enacted into law this session," said Rep. Thomas Brown (D-Westland). "There are many advantages to this change in the Vehicle Code. Other than the simple logic of the right turns, such turns would facilitate the flow of traffic and reduce congestion at intersections.

"In addition, it would reduce the idling time for vehicles, thereby reducing unnecessary use of fuel."

SPONSORS OF the bill contend the probability of pedestrian-vehicle accidents at signal-controlled intersections is lower when the motorist turns right on a red light after stopping than when he turns on a green light.

The right-on-red provision is included in proposed federal standards by the U.S. Department of Transportation's National Safety Administration.

Other groups supporting the bill are the Michigan State Police, State Highway and Transportation Department, Michigan Sheriffs Association and County Road Association of Michigan.

Study group celebrates

Wine, cakes for Austrian party

By ETHEL SIMMONS

A Mai Bowle (May Bowl) champagne and wine punch with strawberries centered an Austrian theme party for a Birmingham Branch AAUW study group last week.

American Association of University Women members brought their husbands to celebrate, as the study group ended its year's calendar.

Group II of "Foods Around the World" met at the Bloomfield Township home of Hans Schjolin, a Swiss, and his wife, Maija, who is Austrian.

Maija translated recipes, in German, from her cousin Rudolphina Seefried, for members of the study group to make rich cakes and also finger snacks complementing the wine.

Member Carlie Steele tackled the most complicated recipe, Aleksandra's Torte, and the result was an eye-filling layered cake that tasted even better than it looked.

MRS. SCHJOLIN explained the recipe as "a very rich cake. Each layer has a different filling. It's a subtle blend of fillings. It really should be made a week in advance. The flavor improves the longer you keep it."

Another cake served at the party was Vienna's most famous Sacher Torte. Study group chairman Laura Harding followed the authentic recipe to turn out the fudgy chocolate-filled, chocolate-covered cake topped with a cheery.

As Mrs. Schjolin sliced the cake, she explained, "Madame Sacher of Vienna used to make these cakes for royalty. It was a secret recipe, and she was pretty cagey about it. When she died, her son carried on the family tradition.

"Sacher is from the Hotel Sacher where the emperor used to stay, particularly his son."

COUSIN RUDOLPHINA also sent a cake of her own making from Vienna, and the party got underway with the hostess snipping the string of the brown-paper parcel.

Inside was a Linzer Torte, named after the city of Linze. There was also a note that ended with the words, "Guten Appetit" (good appetite).

The latticework design of the cake is typical of the Linzer Torte, Mrs. Schjolin said.

Also served were Austrian Anise and Kase Stangel, or Swiss Cheese Sticks, both to enhance the flavor of the wine. There were date bars, too, and a bowl of powdered sugar as dip for strawberries, melon balls and watermelon balls.

Birmingham Branch AAUW has 40 study groups limited to 20 persons. The first group of "Foods Around the World" filled up the first day, so two more international food groups were organized.

MRS. SCHJOLIN said that Group II has visited the Eastern Market; held an Octoberfest with German food, beer and wine; and studied Spanish, Mexican, Russian and Oriental cuisine.

"Sometimes we don't study a country," she said. "We study an item, such as health and diabetic foods or hors d'oeuvres."

Member Edi Ho, who was the first chairman of the food study group, finished a piece of cake and groaned, "From here, I have to go to Buddy's pizza!"

Hans Schjolin made the punch from his own recipe.

He added, "All domestic wines, in my opinion, are superior to the most expensive imported ones."

Sharing in the festivities was the Schjolins' pet dachshund, who ate the cake crumbs that fell to the floor.

"He's a vacuum cleaner," Mrs. Schjolin said.

AUNT ALEKSANDRA'S TORTE

2½ cups flour (half cake flour)
3 teaspoons baking powder
Grated lemon peel
½ cup sugar
1 egg
¼ cup butter

Mix thoroughly and divide into 6 balls. Chill well in refrigerator. Roll each ball out like pie crust, dusting pastry cloth with ½ cup additional flour for all 6 portions. Grease underside of 8-inch cake tin and place layer of dough upon it. Bake for 10 minutes or until golden brown in 400-degree oven.

You may use 3 reversed cake tins at one time for this, making 6 wafer-like crusts in all.

Filling

1¾ cup milk
½ cup sifted flour
½ cup sugar
2 egg yolks
1 teaspoon vanilla
½ cup unsalted butter
½ cup salted butter
1¼ cup confectioners sugar
3 teaspoons cocoa added to 1 teaspoon cream

Scald milk in double boiler, gradually blending with flour and sugar which has been sifted together. When it starts to boil, add 2 egg yolks and cook until thickened, adding vanilla last. Set aside to cool.

In another bowl, cream ½ cup unsalted butter and ½ cup salted butter, confectioners sugar and beat thoroughly, using wooden spoon and bowl. Add to cooled mixture in double boiler and blend thoroughly. Divide custard in half, adding cocoa mixture to one-half. This will make sufficient chocolate filling to cover 3 layers. Let custard set until very firm before spreading on wafers.

Filling for first layer of cake should be chocolate: Then fill succeeding layers in the following order: Strawberry jam, chocolate, apricot jam, chocolate, and top with thickened custard. Custard may also be used to cover sides of cake, concluding with finely ground nutmeats.

This torte is better after it has set for a day or two in refrigerator.

MAI BOWLE (MAY BOWL)

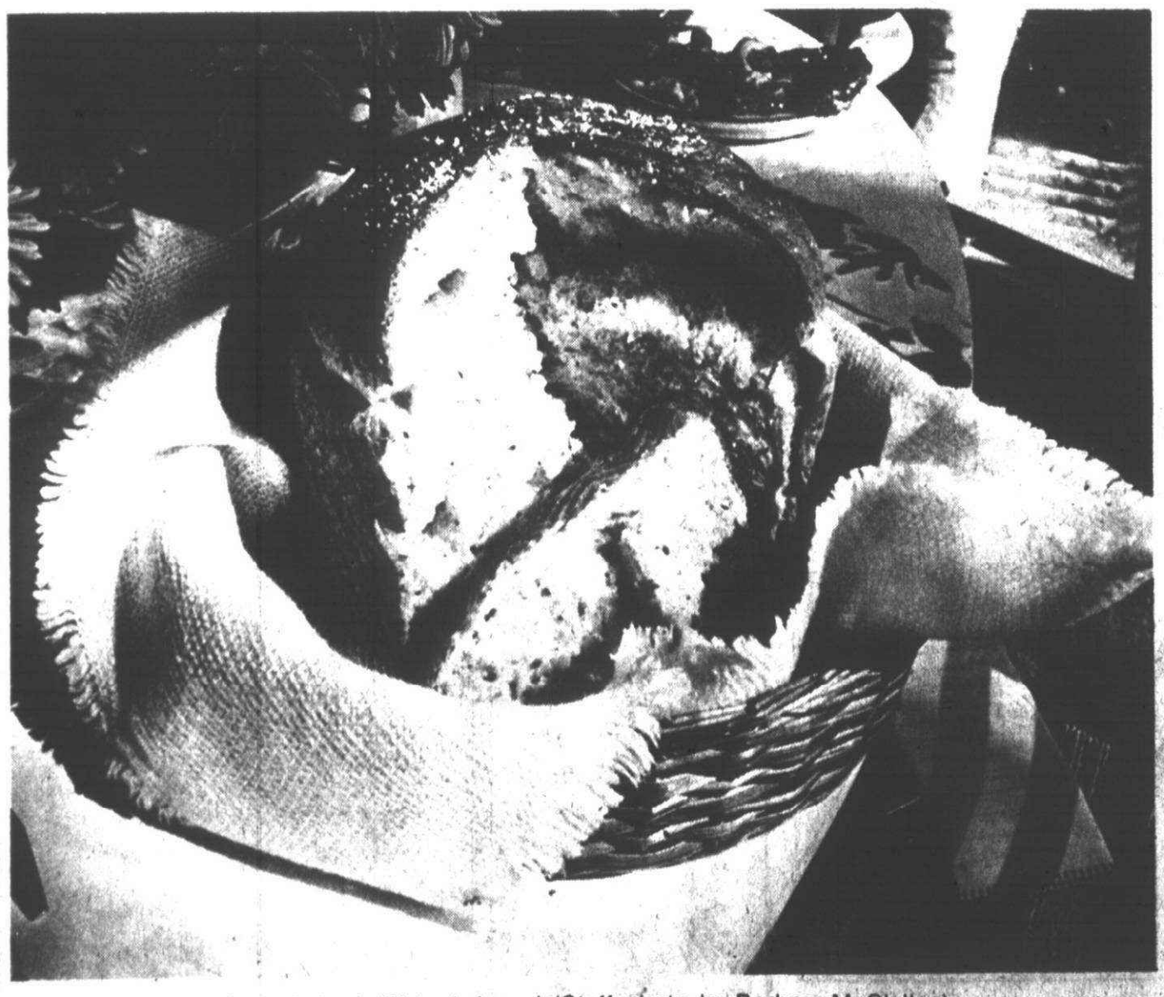

3 bottles dry white wine
1 bottle dry white champagne
1¼ pounds strawberries
4 ounces sugar

Mix the strawberries and sugar and put in refrigerator for a half day. Put strawberries and sugar into punch bowl and pour 1 bottle cold wine into it. Put in refrigerator for 1 hour.

Cool wine and champagne, very cold. Put bottles into bucket with water and ice cubes. Add ice as it melts. Pour remaining 2 bottles of wine into bowl and stir lightly.

Put punch bowl on serving table and pour champagne bottle into it while stirring lightly.

21 full glasses in all.

Dilly of a bread

The bread baker who offers this recipe says, "It's the same dill bread recipe that's been around for years, but I change it a bit by adding herbs."

DILL-HERB BREAD

1 cake yeast dissolved in ¼ cup warm water. Heat 1 cup cottage cheese to lukewarm and mix together with 1½ teaspoons sugar, 2 tablespoons instant onion, 1½ tablespoons butter, 1 tablespoon dill seed, 2 tablespoons Fines Herbes or any mixture of herbs you like, 1 tablespoon salt, 1¼ teaspoon soda, 1 unbeaten egg, 2¼ cups flour. This is a sticky dough so you will want to use your mixer.

Soften yeast in water. Combine in mixing bowl, cottage cheese, sugar, onion, butter, dill seed, salt, soda, egg and yeast. Add flour; if too sticky add another ¼ cup of flour. For first addition of flour, use mixer on low speed.

Let rise in warm place (85-90) degrees until light and doubled in bulk. 50-60 minutes.

Stir down dough. Turn into well-greased 8-inch round pan or 1-½ quart casserole. Let rise again for 30-40 minutes. Bake at 350 degrees for 40-50 minutes until golden brown. Brush with soft butter and sprinkle with coarse salt. Makes 1 round loaf.

We can't ignore this contribution to the arts

editorial opinion

Anything from chamber music at lunchtime to a marionette show after math has been paraded in and out of the Plymouth Community Schools over the past six years.

And if there's one person who can take a good share of the credit for thousands of performances, demonstrations, lectures and discussions, it's Jo Hulce.

Mrs. Hulce stepped down from the presidency of the Plymouth Community Arts Council last Friday with a standing ovation from the close to 100 members of the PCAC gathered for the annual election luncheon. Her impact upon the things cultural in the community has been felt very strongly, and no doubt will continue to have an ever increasing rippling effect in years to come.

Under Mrs. Hulce's leadership the PCAC got off the ground in 1969 and now boasts school programs including story telling, picture ladies, amateur and professional music, drama, dance presentations and countless other sessions to encourage an appreciation and participation in the arts by the children of our community.

It's not just luck which has brought these kinds of programs to the schools, nor is it any quirk of fate which has brought an art rental gallery, an opera appreciation week, craft classes or other items of interest to the whole Plymouth community.

It's been produced by the kind of enthusiasm that Jo Hulce and hundreds of volunteers have spread throughout the community to make Plymouth a place we can all enjoy.

Our hat's off to you Jo, to your enthusiasm and the inspiration you've provided to the thousands of students and residents of the school district. We'd like to add just one more voice of praise for the excellent job you've done.

Crackerbarrel DEBATE

By STEVE BARNABY

All-American pastime can be bad time for kids

"Hey batter, batter."

The familiar taunt from the ball diamond behind city hall caught my ear. Having an extra half-hour before going back to work, I sauntered over to watch the kids play baseball.

I never have been one much in favor of organized athletics for youngsters, and my brief stint in the bleachers strongly reaffirmed that belief.

The problem with Little League sports is parents.

The point of playing a game, in case some have forgotten, is to have fun. But it was obvious that the only persons enjoying themselves at this game were the adult coaches. Throughout the game, the players were glum. Not once did they crack a smile or laugh.

"Hey, dummy, slide. What are you, a sissy?"

"Let's here some chatter out there, you guys. You'd better sound off if you want to stay in the game."

"What's the matter, Billy, you have a sore arm? If you can't throw the ball, I'll find somebody else who can."

THESE ARE ONLY a few of the choice comments thrown around by the coaches, who were out there to ostensibly help the kids, most under 10 years old, learn how to play ball.

If you asked the coaches about their conduct, I'm sure they would have some explanation, but I certainly couldn't understand it.

Children are human beings, a fact which overzealous fathers sometimes forget. Little League would be great if it were a true experience of companionship between boys and their fathers. But it isn't.

Rather, many adults involved in Little League activities go for broke. They want their team to be the best and win it all. With this in mind, they deride and demean children.

Not everyone can be a winner. There are some of us who will be third stringers in a designated sport no matter how hard we try.

Fathers should realize that their kids may not be champs.

Although children can be mean to one another, they know enough to lay off if one of their companions isn't quite as good as the rest. Some adults can't seem to leave well enough alone.

After spending some time shifting uncomfortably on the bleachers trying to keep my mouth from yapping in protest at the coaches' conduct, I started reminiscing over my days on the sandlot.

We never played organized sports. That is to say, we never played sports with the hindrance of adult organization. Strange as it may seem, we made it through entire games. And we had fun.

Sure, there were arguments. But they were shortlived. In total, the smiles and laughter far outweighed the glum atmosphere which seemed to sweep over the game I was observing.

THE CHILDREN at this Little League session seemed to think it was mandatory to make an excuse to the coach every time they made a mistake. Without exception, a strikeout brought a disgruntled phrase and a thrown bat. A missed fly ball caused a quick glance to the dugout and a repentant shrug of the shoulders.

While walking away from the game I heard two comments that sealed my distaste for Little League.

One coach to the other: "Boy we've got more hustle in us than our kids."

A coach glares at his young players huddled in the dugout and says: "You guys stink, stink, stink."

The Stroller

Silencing the media

—By W. W. EDGAR

It long has been the belief that the fellow who travels along the journalistic trail has the most interesting of all careers.

He meets the most interesting people, it is said. He walks and talks with the kings and queens of industry and the sports world.

He is welcome at the finest clubs. He hob-bobs with society. And the "power of the press" makes him the center of most conversations in all gatherings.

This is true to an extent. But there is another side to the coin.

It, too, is most interesting and trying at times. This is the confrontation, head on, with critics, who never fail to let their feelings known.

They can give a fellow a most interesting time. They take rank with the publicity pests — those characters who like nothing better than to see their name and picture in the public prints.

These critics, some of whom are professionals in the art, like nothing better than to rile a fellow and try to prove him wrong.

When this happens, as it sometimes does, they show great delight.

OVER THE YEARS The Stroller has been engaged in many of these confrontations and has learned how to cope with them.

For instance there was the day, at the luncheon table, where one of the critics set about trying to upset him by calling attention to what he claimed were gross mistakes that never should have shown in print.

The Stroller sat and listened for quite a time. The mere fact that he didn't talk back only spurred the critic on to greater lengths.

Finally, he could take it no longer in front of his friends at the table. He waited for the critic to catch his breath, then asked:

"How would you like to have your day's work placed before the public every day? How would you like to have them take a look at what you did during the shift for which you are being paid? Are you sure there wouldn't be any mistakes just as glaring as the ones you called to my attention?"

He sat rather stunned for a moment. He didn't have an answer.

One had to take for granted that he wouldn't like to have his day's work on display.

Yet, that's what happens to the journeyman journalist whose work is displayed in the public prints for all the world to see.

IT'S A FUNNY THING, but that critic never has been heard to offer criticism since that day.

Then there was the time when The Stroller was toiling on the metropolitan daily. One day, in the mail, came a letter containing one of his hockey stories. It was pasted on a sheet of paper with all sorts of criticisms written on the border.

It was signed by a man who identified himself as the professor of English at Highland Park High School.

In keeping with his practice The Stroller answered the letter, thanked him for reading the story, and then invited him to come down to the office for a visit. The Stroller never expected to see him.

But one evening a stranger walked into the office and introduced himself as the professor of English at Highland Park High School.

We shook hands and sat down to chat about the weather among other things. Then, on the spur of a moment, The Stroller asked the visitor if he could operate a typewriter.

"I am quite proficient," came the reply.

With that The Stroller placed a fresh piece of copy paper in the typewriter, turned it toward the professor and said,

"We're going to press in five minutes. Write me a piece of about 100 words on any subject you choose."

THE PROFESSOR looked at the typewiter, then punched out a word or two. He was told there was only four minutes left until the deadline. This happened each minute until the deadline was reached and he had typed less than 25 words.

"Never mind, Prof," The Stroller said, "We have missed the edition. Your story isn't much good until it is in type and you have missed — an unpardonable sin."

He couldn't believe there are times when a writer is given only minutes to get a piece in the paper, but it does happen.

As the Prof sat there in amazement, The Stroller added to his embarrassment by saying, "You see, we don't attempt to write literature. Our job is to get the news to the public as fast as possible."

"I sure learned a lesson tonight," he confided, and this was just the start of his many visits for coffee. He was one critic who was made a believer. And it was fun.

League urges millage support

Editor:

The League of Women Voters of Northville-Plymouth-Canton-Novi urges support of the two millage proposals in the school election in the Plymouth Community School District on June 9.

Emphasizing the importance of continuning at least the present quality of educational program, League President Annalee Mathes stressed the need for renewal of the 5.15 mills for operation—the first millage proposal.

"We cannot afford to allow a sizable chunk of the operating revenues of our school district to be dropped without serious damage to the educational program," Mrs. Mathes said.

The league also supports the second millage proposal for .46 mills which is being asked to replace .4 mills expiring for safety, and .06 mills expiring for debt retirement. The .46 mills will be used to meet rising operating costs.

The two ballot proposals will result in no increase in tax levy for the voters. In fact, due to increased total assessed valuation of property resulting in a lower tax levy needed for debt retirement, support by the voters of both proposals will result in a reduction in the total tax levy.

Coordinator shows how to update a wardrobe

BARBARA MAZER (left) winds a scarf about her throat and then ties it, or wraps it around her head for a turban. Marcella Sly shows her print shirt in a sporty mood (below) and with a more dressy effect (right). Maxine Smith's pink pant suit takes jewelery for a dressy look. (Staff photos by Harry Mauthe)

By MARGARET MILLER

People like Marcella Sly and Maxine Smith of the Livonia Towne Club make work easy for people like Barbara Mazer, a fashion coordinator from Bloomfield Hills.

But then, if there were too many people like Marcella Sly and Maxine Smith, people like Barbara Mazer might not have a job at all.

Mrs. Mazer runs a business called The Closet Queen, and she advises women on how to coordinate their wardrobes and buy their clothes with more savvy.

As part of that business, she has in the last few months been addressing women's clubs on the general subjects of clothes and fashion images, and that's what she did recently for the annual meeting of the Towne Club.

BUT HER METHOD of operating for such club talks is to visit a member or two, check out the wardrobe for each and make "a mini-update"—suggestions for coordinating and determining future purchases.

"And I've never seen two women who are as well-coordinated as Mrs. Sly and Mrs. Smith," she said.

"These two buy wisely. Marcella has a wardrobe that's basically black and white, but when you use that color scheme you can bring in any color, and she does.

"And Maxine has a wardrobe of neutrals—lots of beige and the pastel shades that go so well with it and her coloring. I really didn't have to do very much for them."

SHE DID, HOWEVER offer a few suggestions, and the women showed them off for their fellow club members.

Mrs. Sly wore a sheer print blouse two ways to give a sporty and a dressy effect.

Worn with black pants and a bright green shell top, the blouse became a jacket. Its sleeves were rolled to the elbow, the shirttail ends were knotted in front and Mrs. Mazer tied the matching scarf high about Mrs. Sly's neck.

But for a more dressy effect, the sleeves became long, with cuffs turned back over the jacket, and the scarf became a pussy-cat bow at the neckline.

The effect was festive even with the black pants Mrs. Sly wore to the luncheon, but the matching long black skirt would add more formality.

Mrs. Mazer also suggested that Mrs. Smith try the pink jacket that goes with a pant suit over a simple beige dress. "Those two shades blend beautifully," she commented.

FASHION IMAGES and why people dress the way they do is the subject matter for the clothes-talks Mrs. Mazer gives club groups.

"It took me a couple of months to make up my mind to do this," she said, "but I felt that with the cost of clothes so high women are really anxious to know how to make their wardrobes more adaptable."

Several suggestions were offered the club women of Livonia.

"Stick to two or three colors," Mrs. Mazer said. "That way everything goes together in different ways, and you need less clothes to have more outfits."

She also said it's not hard to use apparel already in the closet to get a contemporary look.

"Today's look is very casual," she said. "You dress as though you're not trying to dress up. Shirts should be left unbuttoned as far down as modesty permits, and cuffs turned back rather than buttoned at the wrist.

"Try wearing a turtleneck shell backwards and zipping it down part way."

THE MAZER philosophy seemed to be to wear the updated familiar garment as if it were new, but also to take definite action to get familiar with a really new style.

"When you buy a new scarf to go with an old shirt, you wear the outfit with the confidence it is new," she said. "But it's a good idea to try out at home a style that really is new to you.

"I buy a lot of current things because of my business, and I find this is a good way to get used to a new style."

Just now Mrs. Mazer is experimenting with different skirt lengths. "I've tried the longer length, and I feel very chic, but my husband hates the mid-calf length," she said. "But I can always shorten things that do not feel comfortable."

THIS FASHION connoisseur said the casual styles of today really appeal to her and "it's the first time in six years I've felt excited about the new clothes."

"I'm glad to see dresses back in lengths at the knee or below," she added. "It gets women away from always wearing a full length dress—that makes everyone look alike. Actually, I much prefer ankle-length to floor-length for evening—it's much more romantic."

Of the other fashions of today, she said, she particularly likes "the great sweaters and T-shirts."

"I think people are ready to buy more now and the styles are good," Mrs. Mazer added. "It's a shame the economy just now is cutting down some purchases, but learning to update present clothes and buy wisely should make women able to buy some new things."

Area volunteers drive so cancer victims may live

By SHERRY KAHAN

"It's another way of going to church," said Mrs. Terry Romaine, a Livonia housewife.

She was referring to her volunteer work as a driver for cancer patients who need to be driven for treatment to hospitals in the area and in Detroit.

"I have met a lot of wonderful people," she added, "and they have done more for me than I have done for them."

Mrs. Romaine began her volunteer work for the Michigan Cancer Foundation after her father died of cancer.

"I WAS UNABLE to help him because I was sick at the time," she said. "But the Cancer Foundation came through and did a lot of wonderful things for him.

"When I got better I began making cancer pads for the foundation and I worked on the cancer fund collection. I also signed up to be a driver."

Mrs. Romaine now drives mainly to Henry Ford Hospital between her hours of work in a nursing home. Sometimes she is asked to drive two times a week and then will not receive a call for several weeks.

"I THINK THEY TRY to spread around the work so that one person is not hit too hard," she said.

"You learn a great deal about other people and what they go through in times of stress," Mrs. Romaine explained. "It broadens your outlook both on life and death."

"These people need a friend and that's what you are, a friend."

MRS. GAIL WAGGONER, service chairman of the Western Wayne County unit of the foundation, pointed out that many cancer patients do not have enough relatives and friends to drive them to the hospital for treatment for five days a week for, six weeks.

That is where the drivers come in.

"The person who drives gets a feeling of satisfaction for having helped someone," said Mrs. Waggoner, one of whose jobs it is to recruit drivers.

"About two-thirds of our drivers are people who said they would drive once," she said. "But then they find that they enjoyed meeting someone new, and doing something for someone other than themselves. So then they say they'll leave their name down and drive again."

THE UNIT HAS about 100 drivers on tap, but not nearly that many see frequent service.

"We average about 50 trips a month," said Mrs. Waggoner. "We log about 2,000 volunteer miles a month"

George Dikeman of Westland views his participation in the program very simply. "I have been lucky my whole life and wanted to do something to help people I felt really needed help."

A teacher in the Plymouth school district, Dikeman explained that he felt he could contribute something during the summers that would be useful and give him a sense of satisfaction.

"Driving these people makes you realize how lucky you are," he said. "Many of them are in such unfortunate circumstances."

THE THING THAT IMPRESSED me the most is their courage; you really see an example of what courage is when you see these people."

Salem wins two—moves to state semifinals

They're at It again over at Plymouth Salem.

The amazin' Rocks, who went undefeated through nine games in the football season, reached the quarterfinals of the state class A basketball tournament, continued their run toward a state championship in baseball Saturday by winning the Southfield High School regional, pasting Adrian 6-1 and blanking Dearborn 6-0.

The wins advanced Salem to the Class A semi-finals to be played next Saturday at Wyandotte Roosevelt High School.

Strong pitching keyed the Rocks' victory Saturday. for Salem and was untouchable as usual.

But it was the exceptional performance of lefty Chuck Thomas who came on in the third in the opening game against Adrian that now makes Salem the favorite to win the state championship.

Thomas stymied the Adrian attack on only three hits in the five innings he worked. Thomas never was in real trouble during that time with the exception of the third inning in which Adrian advanced men to second and third with two out before Thomas pitched out of the jam.

Adrian's only run in the sixth inning, was unearned.

The Rocks jumped to a two-run lead in the first inning of that game when Howard Inch singled to center with the bases loaded and two out.

Willette was going strong at that time but the ace lefthander did experience some control difficulty.

Willette walked the bases loaded in the first and gave up a walk in the second. But he struck out the side in both frames to stay out of trouble.

After Thomas had had his troubles in the third, the Rocks came back with two more runs in the bottom of the inning.

Brian Wolcott doubled up the rightfield line and Doug Tripp followed with an RBI single.

Thomas walked two in the Adrian fourth and only a brilliant diving catch by Rock centerfielder Matt Dillon kept Adrian off the board.

Salem tallied again in the fifth when Inch showed some heads up running, scoring from second on a bases loaded groundball after Charlie Johnson had been forced at the plate and the Adrian catcher attempted to double up Nagel at first.

Adrian's only run came in the sixth when Wolcott inadvertently let a slow rolling grounder bounce off his glove into centerfield with a runner on second.

The Rocks got that one back in their half of the sixth on singles by Tripp and Johnson and one of four Adrian errors of the day.

In the afternoon finals, Salem faced a Dearborn team which had beaten Melvindale 2-0 to gain the finals. The all-Suburban Eight final matched the Rocks against a team which they had beaten twice this year in league play, 4-0 and 4-3.

But three was definitely not the charm for the Pioneers as Willette was masterful for the second week in a row. Willette recorded 14 strike outs and held Dearborn to an infield single by Jim VanderHull in the second and a ground single to center by Bob Knopp in the sixth.

The second was the big inning for the Rocks as they sent nine men to the plate and scored five runs on four hits.

Willette started that inning by walking and Johnson followed with a single off the thirdbaseman's glove. Inch then laid down a bunt and losing pitcher Jim Zimmerman attempted to cut down the lead runner but Willette beat the throw. Inch was credited with a dubious single for his efforts.

After Dillon had struck out, Dan Moore walked to force in Willette.

Vern Nagel then hit a towering fly to center and Nagel tagged and scored on the sacrifice for the inning's second run.

Dave Pierce singled to center to drive in Inch and Pierce moved to second on the throw to the plate.

Wolcott then hit a grounder through the hole on the left side of the infield to score Moore and Pierce. Tripp struck out to end the inning.

Salem's other run came on Dan Moore's sixth inning double to rightfield and Nagel's basehit to left.

"I think this shows that we have a complete team. We had outstanding pitching performances from both Willette and Thomas," said Salem coach Wayne Sparkman after the game.

Salem will play Hazel Park High School, winners of the Eastern Michigan League and owners of a 25-6 record next Saturday in a 10 a.m. game at Wyandotte Roosevelt.

Salem is now 19-7 on the year.

Youth and talent mark O&E area softballers

The 1975 Observer & Eccentric All-Area girls softball team is a squad as young as its sport.

Only four seniors are on the roster for the first and second teams and only one was named to the first team by area coaches in the sport which has been played at the state tournament level for just one year in Michigan.

What that means is that the players — and the action — will just keep getting better when the girls take to the diamond again next year.

Highlighting the first team are two girls at a postition which is the heart of any fastpitch team. The old baseball adage that a team goes only as far as its pitching was never more true in the cases of Bishop Borgess, with junior Mary Kay Intyre, and Thurston, with Rene Enwright.

Intyre led the Spartans to a district softball championship by giving up only two runs in two games. "She was almost unhittable." "Be couldn't even see the ball," were comments from area coaches who had gone against the Borgess junior.

Intyre did not give up an earned run all season.

Thurston's Renee Enright was the kind of player who could have played any position. As a pitcher, she went 8-1 on the year and came through with a .553 batting average. "Renee is an excellent all around athlete and takes an active part in other school sports besides softball," said Eagle coach Patricia Pokay of her sophomore standout.

Another sophomore, Cheryl Eyerman, was voted as batterymate for the two hurlers. With a solid .600 batting average including four home runs, Eyerman was the power punch in Livonia Franklin's line-up. Eyerman pitched, played infield and outfield for the Patriots as well as catching. "Her sincere desire to win as well as her willingness to play any position make her an excellent asset on any team," said Patriot coach Chuck Hebestreit.

Plymouth Canton's Kim Zoladz handles first base on the All-Area team. Zoladz batted .489 and had 22 RBIs for the year for the Chiefs. But it was the defensive end of the game at which she stood out. Zoladz made long stretches and quick scoops a regular part of her fielding repertoire.

Jane Reynolds was one of three Livonia Stevenson girls to make first team. The junior second baseperson batted .433 and was a "spirited team leader" according to Spartan coach Marcia Covert.

Another Stevenson infielder, Brenda Tipton, got the coaches' nod as All-Area shortstop. Tipton batted .438 and committed only two errors for the Spartans and was named to the Inter-Lakes League team.

Only a sophomore, Tipton ran up 35 stolen bases on the year.

Lisa Cook rounds out the infield at third base. The only senior on the All-Area first team, Cook was rated an "unselfish team player" by Franklin coach Hibestreit. Cook hit safely in every game en route to batting .460 on the year. Cook also led the Northwest Suburban champion Patriots in walks with 17.

A freshman and two juniors comprise the All-Area first team outfield.

Debbie Pitera is the lone first-year girl to make the team.

Pitera was "the most coachable athlete on the team," according to her coach and hit .440 on the year and .600 for the last half of the season for Plymouth Salem. Pitera pitched, and caught before finding a spot in the outfield for the Rocks. With three years ahead of her, Pitera has a bright future in the sport.

Sue Thompson played left field and batted .500 for Livonia Stevenson this year. The junior all conference outfielder was the "most consitent hitter and best spirited player" according to Spartan coach Covert.

Rounding out the outfield is Bentley junior Terry Mills. With a .600 batting average and only one strike out on the season, Mills had all the offensive qualifications while batting lead-off for the Bulldogs.

Three seniors highlight the O&E All-Area second team.

One of them, St. Agatha's Sue Walker, recorded 50 strike outs while batting .525 to gain a pitching berth on the team. The other second team hurler, Canton's Anne Dozbush, ran up an 8-5 record while batting .640 for the Chiefs.

Pam Ellison was behind the plate this year for Thurston. Ellison had 12 stolen bases while batting .439 for the Eagles.

Peggy Watts played first base in every game for Bentley and made only two errors for the season. Watts batted .459 and stole 13 bases for the Bulldogs.

Lynn Brueckner holds down the second base spot on the team and was a standout for Plymouth Salem this year.

In her first year of fastpitch softball, Brueckner paced the Rocks at the plate with a .625 average.

Sophomore Donna Meyer holds down the shortstop position and was noted for her base stealing abilities at Thurston. Meyer recorded 22 thefts while batting .574 for the Eagles.

Linda Behrand was voted most-valuable-player while playing third base for St. Agatha. She led the Aggies with a .535 average.

Franklin's Darcie Flynn, Thurston's Kathy Patterson and St. Agatha's Theresa Walker comprise the second team outfield.

Flynn had 24 RBIs and two doubles and two triples to lead the Patriots in centerfield.

Sophomore Patterson handles some-of Thurston's mound chores as well as playing outfield while batting .500 for the Eagles.

Theresa Walker did not make an error for the entire season at St. Agatha. Only a freshman, Walker hit for a fine .515 average.

St. Agatha ousted 7-5 in Class C regional final

Redford St. Agatha bowed out of Class C state tournament competition Saturday, losing to Blissfield 7-5 in a regional final game at Blissfield.

The loss capped a year in which the Aggies started slow but came on to win seven in a row and make one of the biggest tournament runs in the school's history.

"I was really satisfied the way we played for the last half of the season," said Aggy coach Dan Sweeney after his team's defeat.

"At the beginning of the year it seemed that everyone was in a batting slump and we always had one bad inning in the field," he said.

Pat Ruvolo, St. Agatha's senior ace righthander, stayed right in form in the opening game of the regional as the Aggies thumped Gabriel Richard 5-3.

Gabriel Richard could manage only four bloop singles off of Ruvolo and only a leaky defense in the seventh inning allowed two unearned runs for Richard and made the game close.

Senior Ron Jess powered a 340-foot homer in the fifth for St. Agatha and Steve Clor had a pair of singles.

Chris Gongol had a two RBI single in the third inning in which the Aggies scored three times to go ahead to stay.

Jess also had a long double along with his home run.

"The game wasn't actually as close as the score might indicate," Sweeney said. "We made some mistakes in the seventh but the game was well in hand," he said.

In the second game, the Aggies were not so fortunate.

Going against a Blissfield team which is now 24-3, St. Agatha provided enough offense but the pitching, which had been the strong suit of the team all year, fell apart.

With the score tied 5-5 in the fourth. Jess began to experience pain in the elbow of his throwing arm and was removed in favor of junior Greg Sipus.

The usually dependable Sipus, however, proceeded to walk the bases full in the fifth and then gave up two sacrifice flies which scored runs for the winning margin.

Ruvolo came on to check Blissfield the rest of the way, but it was too late.

David Mully powered a 300-foot homer in the fourth for three RBIs to pace the Aggy hitting attack.

"It was a good year and we'll have some people back next year. Sipus will return and so will David Mully. Both of them will probably pitch for us," said Sweeney.

But Sweeney said that the heart of the team would be graduating and would be hard to replace.

"We lose Ruvolo, Jess, catcher Gary Beyrand and Chris Gongol and they are all good ballplayers," Sweeney said.

The split left St. Agatha with an 11-9 final record after the Aggies had been 4-8 at one time this year.

Blissfield will advance to the Class C state tournament finals to be played next Saturday at Marshall High School.

Major Michigan colleges join youth sports study committee

The nation's first long-range study of youth sports programs is well on its way with representatives from three major Michigan Universities playing an important role in its direction.

The Michigan Legislative Study Committee on Youth Sports Programs met at the Lansing Capitol recently with faculty from Michigan State University, Wayne State University, and the University of Michigan to finalize plans for an investigation of youth sports programs in Michigan.

Each university will scientifically choose 30 communities for study. The study which is expected to run until the end of 1976, will survey youth sports programs in those locales, collecting data via personal interviews and mailed questionnaires.

Committee Co-Chairman State Senator Carl Pursell and his colleagues are quick to point out that the investigation is not aimed at the eventual dissolvement of youth sports. In fact, the committee formally preempted their written proposal by stating that, "Both beneficial and detrimental effects of such programs" would be considered.

PURSELL HAS INSISTED that nothing less than a purely scientific approach be used as a means for investigation.

Administrators at each of the three universities have signified their concurrence by appointing three reknowned faculty personnel to the study. Michigan State's members are Dr. Vern Seefeldt and Dr. Wayne Van Huss. Seefeldt's primary research has been with the growth and development of children as it relates to acquisition of motor skills and changing biological maturity. Van Huss is one of 43 experts from 18 countries chosen to participate in an international symposium on the nutrition of the athlete in Leningrad this summer.

The University of Michigan will send Dr. Thomas Gilliam as its representative. Gilliam has conducted workshops in physical training for swimming and track coaches of junior high school aged children.

Dr. David Blievernicht from Wayne State University is an expert in the field of sport anatomy and biomechanics. His contributions include researching the socioeconomic and cultural conditions that surround youth sport programs.

A proposal drawn up by the committee includes mention of actual instances where athletic programs for youth may have detrimental consequences—either for that athlete as he presently competes, or as it affects him in later life.

Past data is cited, most of it alluding to repeated stress that can occur as a result of accelerated physical activity. However, Van Huss, Seefeldt, Gilliam, and Blievernicht concur that the short and long-range effects of most such intensive training are relatively understudied and unknown.

Tri-River League caps good Tiger year

By JIM BRADLEY

One of the finest joys in coaching is seeing the boys improve in their various sports and give it their best effort.

This was the highlight for Garden City West track coach Bill Pinnell as the soft-spoken veteran saw his Tigers finish second in the Tri-River League track and field meet recently.

Powerful Cherry Hill was the class of the league, going undefeated during the season, and taking the conference title with 97 points, including five first-place finishes in the league meet.

WEST, WHICH had lost to Melvindale in a dual meet, got superb efforts from several athletes to edge the Cardinals, 57-43 in taking second place. After third-place Melvindale came Taylor Kennedy (36 points), Riverside (31), Southgate Schafer (28), Crestwood (23) and Southgate, 13.

"We did not have a lot of depth this year," Pinnell pointed out, "but the kids performed well and did a good job. I was especially proud of those who gave it their best effort in the league meet to give us a second place finish and also permit West to win the All-Sports trophy for this year."

According to the scoring system, Cherry Hill took track honors with 16 points, going undefeated in seven dual meets as well as being tops in the league meet.

West, which was 5-2 in dual competition, tied Melvindale for second with 13 points in the season's final Tri-River track standings.

HIGHLIGHTING the Tigers' track squad were Garth McGrath and Mike Cundiff who won league titles in their respective events.

Senior McGrath won the pole vault with a jump of 13 feet even. He was the only vaulter at the Wayne Invitational to clear 13 feet earlier this year and had an 8-1 record in the vault, losing only to Cherry Hill's Kendall.

Cundiff, only a junior, is a miler who Pinnell thinks will really be a good one next year. The slender long-distance star won the league mile in 4:32.7, edging Riverside's Joe Mareusz (4:32.8) by half a stride as the two sprinted for the tape. Cundiff was undefeated in five mile races this season.

Other prominent figures in West's track success were Jay Gooch, shot put; Don Frank, Dave Havener and Don Herrick.

Gooch, who made all-league honors as a tight end in football, is a senior who's out for track for the first time. He was ahead in the shot put in the league meet during the entire time until Riverside's McTigue tossed the 12-pound ball the last time. McTigue's last throw looped 48 feet, 9 inches, beating Gooch's mark by a scant three inches.

"Jay improved his toss by 8½ feet during the season," Pinnell said. "This is only his first year out and he's shown great improvement."

DAN FRANK came in for much praise from his coach. The slender junior did a tremendous job in the league meet, showing great versatility as he finished third in the long jump, fifth in the high jump at 5-11, took sixth in the 440 in 53.5 and ran the opening leg of the mile relay in 53.8 to help West take third.

Dave Havener, also a junior, improved much over the season and Pinnell looks for him to become one of the area's top quarter-milers. Dave was running only his third individual 440 in the league meet and his finishing kick down the stretch brought him from third and almost to victory as he and Melvindale's Knas both clocked 51.6. However Knas was just a shade ahead at the tape.

Low hurdler Don Herrick took third in the league test in the 120-yard challenge with a time of 20.5, just one-tenth of a second behind the winner.

"All the boys gave a good performance and I'm proud of them all," Pinnell repeated. "I guess seeing them do their best is the biggest reward of all."

WHODUNIT?

The sofa, the chair, the stove and the dresses . . . all sold in a single day. Who could have gotten away with it? It's really not such a mystery. Every clue points to the Observer & Eccentric Classifieds: the quick response, the number of calls, and most important, the results-SALES.

Consider the opportunity . . . the Observer & Eccentric Newspapers are read twice each week by more than 155,500 families in Wayne and Oakland Counties --families next door to you and in neighboring communities.

Consider the motive . . . the Observer & Eccentric Want Ad Department has a strong desire to satisfy your needs, whether you're selling a couch or looking for a job.

Consider the weapon . . . the Observer & Eccentric Family Want Ads have a double edge because they're placed in two consecutive issues (Monday/Thursday or Thursday/Monday) and are seen each time by more than 155,500 witnesses. And these Family Want Ads (no changes in copy, no cancellations) cost only $6 --that's a savings to you of $2 off the regular cost of placing an ad in two issues.

It's a modus operandi that is well known and makes the solution to this case elementary.

Canton gives funds to athletic group

CANTON—Township participation in the Plymouth Community Junior Athletic Association is increasin! in terms of dollars and activity.

The board of trustees last week approved a 1975 contribution to the association of $4,000, $166 more than the sum donated in 1974.

"We're very appreciative of the funds you gave us last year," a representative of the association told board members. "We've had a huge growth of Canton kids. We're in the process of changing our name to the Plymouth-Canton Junior Athletic Association."

Residents' participation in the association jumped 85 per cent from 1973 to 1974. A total of 998 children from Canton Township last year participated in the association's basketball, football, baseball and hockey programs.

Supervisor Robert Greenstein said the board allocated $4,000 for the Plymouth Community Junior Athletic Association in the township's 1975 budget.

ONE STOP SHOP FOR POP!

POP is just another name for Dear Old Dad. He deserves the best and you want to get it for him. Whatever your budget, whatever your needs, you can find just the right present at any one-stop Meijer Thrifty Acres. Let's take a look throughout the store.

Choose from golf clubs, golf balls, baseball bats, baseballs, a barbeque grill, charcoal, a steak for the grill, cooking utensils and aprons, patio stones, citronella candles, lawn games, coolers, beer and wine, watermelon, bicycles, bicycle flags, canoes, life jackets, sleeping bags, camp food, tennis shoes, car mats, car polish, steering wheel covers, 8-track tapes, pipes, cigars, slippers, pajamas, slacks, shirts, pillows, paintbrushes, flashights, film, leisure suits.....

WHY DRIVE all over town to find the right gift when you can one-stop shop at Meijer. You'll save your time to be with Dad when you One-Stop Shop at Meijer.

NOTICE TO OUR CUSTOMERS

DUE TO AN INCREASE IN HANDLING COSTS, THERE WILL BE A SERVICE CHARGE OF FOUR DOLLARS ($4.00) FOR ANY CHECK RETURNED FOR INSUFFICIENT FUNDS.

THANK YOU

INSUFFICIENT FUNDS CHECKS are a real problem for retailers. It can often be the difference between making a profit or showing a loss. Not only are many checks never collected, but the cost involved in collecting checks sometimes exceeds the amount of the check. Most of these costs are reflected in higher costs of merchandise on the shelf.

WE DECIDED to add a four dollar service charge to any check we need to process for insufficient funds. This would mean that the customer whose check does not clear at the bank will pay the larger share of the handling cost. This policy will help keep our prices competitive. None of us can afford the cost of insufficient funds checks.

AS AN EXAMPLE, during the last three months, over $250,000 of checks cashed at our 25 Meijer stores were returned from the bank. With our inflated economy and the keen competitive position of our company, we feel this collection charge is the fairest method to handle the situation.

HAPPINESS IS... GOOD SERVICE!
